

Republican National Committee

Counsel's Office

RESOLUTION CONDEMNING THE FAILED ISIS FOREIGN POLICY OF PRESIDENT BARACK OBAMA AND FORMER SECRETARY OF STATE HILLARY CLINTON

WHEREAS, The Obama Administration has demonstrated that it is not capable of identifying or stopping terrorists or potential terrorists from entering our country; nor is it capable of preventing terrorists' acts of violence;

WHEREAS, The Islamic State in Iraq and Syria (ISIS) already has a presence here in America;

WHEREAS, Since President Obama said ISIS has been "contained," just hours before the Paris terrorist attack and former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said she "could not have predicted" the success of ISIS, it is apparent that both of them have been and remain clueless regarding the seriousness of the ISIS threat;

WHEREAS, Both President Obama and former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton even refuse to use the term, "Islamic terrorism";

WHEREAS, President Obama and former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton are so mired in political correctness that their judgement is crippled, and they have instilled fear of retribution in the general public for so called "profiling" to the point that suspicious activity goes unreported which, for example, might have prevented the San Bernardino massacre;

WHEREAS, President Obama and former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton have twisted the tragedy at San Bernardino to pursue their own radical gun control agenda, knowing full well that jihadists would be elated at the prospect of disarmed targets;

WHEREAS, President Obama by withdrawing U.S. military power and influence from several critical regions, and abandoning former allies in order to favor jihadists has demonstrated his callous disregard for American interests and Americans overseas, and that people are gravely endangered by his and former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton's policies; and

WHEREAS, The Republican National Committee asks the same question as in the November 14th debate: "Americans are not thrilled with the Obama administration's effort against ISIS, and yet you

Paid for by the Republican National Committee
www.gop.com
Not Authorized By Any Candidate Or Candidate's Committee

were a senior member of the Obama administration, so why should Americans trust you to take on ISIS?” to which former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton had no coherent answer; our answer is an unequivocal, “You can’t”; therefore be it

RESOLVED, The Republican National Committee, along with the entire nation, demands that America take an aggressive leadership role in defeating and destroying ISIS here at home and throughout the world;

RESOLVED, The Republican National Committee insists that President Barack Obama focus on attacking ISIS instead of those who disagree with his policies; and RESOLVED, The Republican National Committee asks that Congress pass legislation to implement a reliable method of determining which refugees are acceptable security risks.